U. S. Not Ready For War, Bradley Says

Sidewalk Proposal Unsettled

P.-T.A. Can't Help Pay, But Still Wants Walk, Council Hears

City Council last night held a two-hour public hearing on the possible construction of a sidewalk on Indiana avenue from South Grand avenue to Kensington Place.

This public hearing was scheduled after the project, petitioned for by 480 members of the George Washington School Parent-Teachers Association, first came before council six weeks ago.

The problem facing council in connection with this walk is unique in the city's history, said Council President William C. Slack, a veteran of more than 30 years in council.

Only two of the 480 petitioners for the walk live on the street which would be assessed for taxes to pay for the walk.

All other sidewalk projects in the city's history have been petitioned for by residents of the street where it would be built. In usual practice council requires that petitioners for the walk total 60 percent of the owners of the property assessable for the improvement.

All But 2 Against It

In this case all but two of the 39 property owners who would be assessed have signed a petition of remonstrance opposing the project because of its high cost.

At the council meeting six weeks ago the property owners proposed that the George Washington P.-T.A. membership try to raise a portion of the cost by subscription.

Jackson Taft, president of the P.-T.A. reported to council last night that a questionnaire sent by the organization to its members disclosed that the subscription plan would not be successful. He said the members took the position that if council deems the sidewalk necessary as a safety measure, as the P.-T.A. believes it is, then council should take appropriate action and order the walk put in and the assessments made against the property owners.

Taft proposed that if the current two-year payment plan set up by council to cover such assessments is too short, then property owners should be given more time, perhaps five years or more.

Councilman Clarence Sanden, 6th Ward, chairman of the finance committee, said there was no question that there would be a sidewalk on Indiana avenue but just when would be hard to tell.

Referendum Possible

Mr. Sanden said he had been advised by certain property owners concerned that if council forced the walk onto the property owners they would retaliate with a referendum action. "This issue is really a hot potato," Sarden added. He pointed out council would be foolish to proceed with the walk with such certain legal opposition pending.

Residents of the area complained that speeding motorists threaten school children's lives daily on Indiana avenue.

Safety Service Director Ralph Forrest said this would be corrected shortly by the installation of stop signs as quickly as possi-

Calls For Huge Arms Increase

Marshall Hailed By Baruch As Master Of Global Defense

LEXINGTON, VA., May 15—(AP)—Bernard M. Baruch today upheld the concept of global defense against communism and hailed Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall as "history's first global strategist."

In his first formal comment on the controversy stirred up by President Truman's firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the elder statesman called for a huge increase in the military strength of the United States and her Allies in order to ensure success in a global defense program.

Baruch did not mention MacArthur by name, but in a speech prepared for delivery on "George Catlett Marshall Day" at Virginia Military Institute, he said:

Leader Is Organizer

"I wonder how much of the controversy in recent days is really a reflection of the difference between the leader of troops and the organizer.

"A great leader of troops naturally is zealous in desiring that when his men become locked in battle that every resource be marshalled which might increase the chance of their winning or decreasing their losses. The very qualities which made him so valiant a leader of troops would make him impatient of any limitations on his action."

An arch was to be dedicated to Marshall, a V.M.I. graduate, at the ceremony honoring the U. S. Secretary of Defense.

Baruch, a presidential adviser in two world wars, has differed with President Truman of late.

Baruch said in his address that he put the concept of global defence, which "saved the free world once and which can save it again," ahead of any other consideration in U. S. policy planning.

But Baruch said that global defense could succeed only by a tremendous increase in the military strength of the United States and the rest of the free world.

"Many issues have become involved in the raging controversy over Far Eastern policy," Baruch said. "I would not want to seem to be answering or dismissing them. Still, I would like to put forward this one thought of my own much of our trouble is the result of military weakness.

"In our present situation, whatever is attempted on behalf of peace, must fall short, because of a lack of supporting military strength.

"We are trying to enforce a global doctrine of opposition to communism with a military establishment which is sorely strained by the demands of only one theater.

"Many of the issues — and choices—raised by the controversy would solve themselves if more of America's strength were mobilized. Until we have mobil-

Caledonia G.I. Wounded In Korea

A Caledonia serviceman, Pfc. Arden J. Kline, U. S. Army, in service in Korea, was wounded in action April 27. Information regarding this was received in a letter from him last Tuesday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Kline of Caledonia. They also received notification from the War Department on Saturday.

Pfc. Kline now is in a hospital at Pusan on Korea. The Klines believe their son was serving in the vicinity of Seoul when he was wounded. In his letter, he told his parents he suffered wounds in the back and right arm and after arriving at the hospital underwent an operation. However, his wounds are not believed to be serious.

Pfc. Kline entered the service Sept. 8, 1950, and received his basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky. He then was transferred to Seattle, Wash., and left the states for overseas duty in January. He was graduated from Caledonia High School with the class of 1946. Prior to entering service, Pfc. Kline was employed at the Swan Rubber Co. in Bucyrus.

Rain Seen Aiding Red Offensive

Enemy Ready To Take Advantage Of Grounded U.N. Planes

TOKYO, May 15—(AP)—Rain-drenched Chinese troops plodded south through Central Korean mud today in their buildup for a new offensive.

Spearheads of a growing Red force facing the center of the 100 mile United Nations line were reported 12 miles south of the 38th parallel.

United Nations patrols spotted Communists in units of 500 or 600 slogging through the hills east of Kapyong. The U. S. Eighth Army did not indicate how close they were to U. N. lines.

But no fighting was reported from this area. Clashes elsewhere on the rainswept battle line were between groups of 100 or 200.

The Eighth Army said the Reds east of Kapyong were south of the Pukhan River. This would put them 35 to 40 miles northeast of Seoul and roughly 15 miles northwest of Hongchon, U. N. base on the central front.

Insure Warning

An allied officer said well-protected U. N. positions and restless patrols probable would insure about 24 hours warning before the Chinese hit in strength.

A central front briefing officer said the weather probably would speed up the expected offensive about two days. The strike generally is expected next week.

"This is their meat," one officer commented. "The Chinese can do a lot of moving under these clouds without being seen from the air. They are undoubtedly taking advantage of it."

B-29s were out Tuesday despite heavy weather. They bombed the Sariwon supply center, above the Western front, by radar.

On the western front 10 allied soldiers—eight Americans and two Turks—returned to their own lines after being released by Chinese. They were taken prisoner April 25 in the Reds' first spring offensive. AP Correspondent John Randolph said all told of comparatively good treatment by their captors. They said they were told never again to fight the Chinese, and released.

Stabilizer Seeking To Cut Profits

Johnston Asks Powers To Enforce National Crackdown

WASHINGTON, May 15—(AP)—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston asked today for powers to enforce a national crackdown on spiraling profits — ranging from the barnyard to the union bargaining room and industrial price sheets.

He told the Senate banking committee in prepared testimony there are six major threats to a sound dollar. He laid down a six point program for flattening the inflation spiral. "Unless we have a stabilized economy, unless we hold inflation in check," he declared, "we cannot mount the defense effort we need."

Johnston called for removal of one price ceiling—the $10,000 limit on fines which can be assessed against violators of the Defense Production Act. Economic mobilization authority stems from this act. Johnston called the $10,000 maximum fine "an invitation to try to get away with bigger pickings."

Johnston was called before the committee in benalf of the administration's request for extension and broadening of the production act. It expires June 30.

Farm, industrial and landlord earnings must all be leveled off together, Johnston said, if "we are to have a completely rounded, integrated, sensible economic stabilization program." Commercial, as well as private rents, he said "must be included" in economic controls. The present production act does not cover any kind of rents, and commercial rents are not included in the separate federal rent control program.

Six Threats

Here are the six threats to the sound dollar Johnston outlined:

1. The expected injection of one billion dollars weekly into the country's economic bloodstream when defense spending goes into high gear later this year.
2. "Milk-it-dry" profits, price and wage demands.
3. Rising food prices.
4. Speculative scare buying and hoarding when consumer shortages appear.
5. Any break in the "present peace" between labor and management.
6. General unwillingness to recognize existence of a national emergency.

He proposed that Congress provide these remedies:

1. "Pay-as-we-go" taxation

Harding Vocal Group Set For Concert

Tonight at 8:15 in the Edison Junior High School auditorium, the Harding High School a cappella choir will present its annual spring concert. Doors of the school will open at 7:30 and tickets, priced at 50 cents, will be available there.

Under the direction of L. G. Jones, vocal music supervisor in the city schools, the choir will sing a program of sacred, semi-classical and novelty numbers.

Highlighting the program will be a piano solo number by Miss Nancy Breithaupt, the choir accompanist, who will be accompanied at another piano by Miss Emma Wehrle, a Marion music teacher. Miss Breithaupt will play "Concerto in D Minor" by MacDowell.

Also as a feature attraction a boys ensemble of the choir will be heard in a group of numbers. Members of the ensemble are Loren Heiser, first tenor, John Goff and Tom Indoe, second tenors, Lowell Jones and Gary Snouffer, baritones, and Dean Ludwig, bass.

Hint Reds Ready For Peace Talk

Senators Reveal No Confirmation Of Latest Report

WASHINGTON, May 15—(AP)—Unconfirmed talk of possible enemy peace feelers in Korea spread among lawmakers today as Gen. Omar N. Bradley carried on the administration's military reply to Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Before Bradley's scheduled appearance (9 a. m., E.S.T.) in the Senate inquiry into MacArthur's ouster, Senator Sparkman (D-Ala) told a reporter the feeling is growing among senators that the Red Chinese may give some early sign of willingness to negotiate.

Secretary of Defense Marshall who completed yesterday about 28 hours of testimony spread over seven days, declined to discuss peace probabilities. But other senators who heard his testimony have indicated they think Marshall must have some reason for what they regarded as relative optimism on his part.

Little Changed

Marshall's marathon testimony apparently left members of the Senate armed services and foreign relations committees little changed in their attitude toward the conflicting programs of President Truman and MacArthur for the Far East.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif) told a reporter he thinks "the administration's contentions still remain to be proved."

"So far as he went, Marshall presented some facts that were not clearly known before but there are lots of contradictions in the testimony," Knowland said.

Sparkman said he thinks Marshall made it clear there isn't too wide an area of differences between MacArthur and the administration, but that the difference is vital.

"MacArthur is proceeding on the theory that Red China is a government in its own right and can make its own decisions," the Alabama senator said. "General Marshall and the administration leaders believe that what Red China does is dictated by the Kremlin."

No Knowledge

On the question of possible peace feelers, Sparkman made it clear he has no knowledge of any specific move.

But he said some members of the two committees are so impressed with Marshall's recital of American success in decimating the Communist troops that they believe the Reds will be forced to seek an early truce.

"We just have the feeling that the Chinese Reds can't go on much longer under the losses they have been sustaining," he said.

Marshall wound up seven days of testimony yesterday by telling the committees that so far as he knows every responsible U. S. military leader—including Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower — favors the President's plan to fight a limited war in Korea.

EXTEND DEADLINE

COLUMBUS, May 15—(AP)—Ohio selective service announced today that the deadline for filing applications for the college student aptitude tests had been extended to May 25.

SETS NEW FLIGHT RECORD. Max Conrad, of Minneapolis, stretches his arms after landing his plane at LaGuardia field at New York to complete a trans-continental non-stop flight from Los Angeles in 23 hours and four minutes. It as a new coast-to-coast non-official speed record for light planes.

Should Avoid "Showdown" With Russia

Declares Adoption Of MacArthur Proposals Risk World Conflict

WASHINGTON, May 15—(AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley testified today the United States is not ready for a "showdown" with Russia and should not risk world conflict by adopting Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Korean war proposals.

Making plain he considers Russia to be this country's real foe, Bradley said MacArthur's proposals for direct blows at Red China "would involve us in the wrong war, at the wrong place, at the wront time and with the wrong enemy."

Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told senators he knows some critics are "impatient" with the administration's plan to fight a limited war in Korea and are calling for a "showdown" with the Soviet Union. Bradley then added:

"From a purely military viewpoint, this is not desirable. We are not in the best military position to seek a showdown, even if it were the nation's desire to forfeit the chances for peace by precipitating a total war."

Bradley also said the Joint Chiefs—top military planners of the Army, Navy and Air Force—believe MacArthur's proposals would increase "the risk of global war."

He declared, too, that they are in a better position than MacArthur to assess the risk of general war and to judge of the country's military resources.

Bradley forecast that some critics would say, "why are the Joint Chiefs of Staff advertising the fact that we are not militarily in a position to have a showdown" with Russia.

"Our capabilities are not unknown to the Communists," he went on.

"They are apt students of military power, and fully realize that although we are not prepared to deliver any ultimatum, we could hurt them badly if they attacked us or our friends.

"They also know that with our potential, and the strength of our Allies, in the long run they could not win a war with a United States that is alert, and continuously prepared."

Bradley said the administration's "global strategy is paying off and I see no reason to let impatience alter it in the Far East." Then he declared:

"Certainly the course of action we are pursuing has avoided a total war which could only bring death and destruction to millions

Flying Father Ready For Tin Pan Alley

NEW YORK, May 15—(AP)—Max Conrad, the flying father, had a date with Tin Pan Alley today.

The 47-year-old commercial pilot flew in from Los Angeles yesterday in a tiny Piper pacer monoplane to set an unofficial record, or possibly two, for light planes.

Now he wants to set some sort of an unofficial selling record for part-time songwriters.

He said he brought four new songs with him and hoped to peddle them all in a day or so. Then he plans to return to his wife and nine children in Mirror Lake, Minn., outside Minneapolis. A tenth youngster is on the way.

He landed here at LaGuardia field yesterday afternoon 23 hours and four minutes after taking off from Los Angeles.

John M. Jones made the trip in 30 hours and 47 minutes in 1938 to set the official record.

Conrad's flight was not officially timed by the National Aeronautics Association, which keeps tap of records.

There also was the possibility that Conrad unofficialy broke the non-stop distance record for light planes, but there were arguments that he did this by carrying a load of gasoline over the "light-weight" limit.

C. & O. Asks OK To Stop Two Trains

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad today asked the State Public Utilities Commission to let them discontinue two passenger trains running daily between Columbus and Toledo through Marion.

The railroad said the trains have been running at a financial loss and their operation has become "burdensome and unnecessary for the traveling public," the International News Service reported.

The northbound train, No. 35, leaves Columbus at 1:50 p.m. and arrives at Marion at 3 p.m. and at Toledo at 4:55 p.m.

The other leaves Toledo at 9:15 a.m., arrives at Marion at 11:29 a.m., and at Columbus at 12:50 p.m.

WEDEMEYER TO TESTIFY

LINCOLN, Neb., May 15—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer has disclosed that he will join the ranks of generals appearing before Senate committee hearing testimony on the firing of General MacArthur. He was the author of a report on the Far East which was first suppressed then released in part.

FIVE DAY FORECAST

Warm weather will continue Wednesday through Sunday with high temperatures averaging near 80 and lows near 60. Warmest period Wednesday through Friday, followed by cooler weekend. Showers indicated Friday and Saturday.

Chatfield Man Killed In Grade Crossing Crash

A man from near Chatfield was killed instantly at 5:35 a.m. today when he drove into the path of a west-bound freight train on the Akron, Chicago and Youngstown Railroad.

Dead is Clinton C. Clady, 42, of near Chatfield. The accident occurred at a crossing one mile east of Chatfield and about 18 miles north of Bucyrus on the Schwemley pike.

The car was demolished and carried some distance before it was thrown to the side of the tracks. The train engineer was Paul M. Nottingham, 53, of Akron and the conductor was Robert Gafe of Delphos.

Clady's body was taken to the Muntz Funeral Home in Bucyrus in the Muntz ambulance. Crawford County Coroner Dr. O. O. Kackley issued a verdict of accidental death.

It was not immediately learned where Clady was bound. His family could not be contacted immediately and funeral arrangements were not completed.

Senate Rushing Aid Bill

Soviet Move Goads U. S. To Act On Grain-To-India

WASHINGTON, May 15—(AP)—Senators hoped to take action today on the controversial Grain-for-India proposal by passing a compromise bill for 2,000,000 tons of food on a straight loan basis.

President Truman asked Congress to send relief grains estimated at $190,000,000 to India as a gift.

The food, largely wheat, is needed to meet famine and starvation reported in some parts of India.

Action on the bill comes in the midst of skillful Soviet propaganda credited with exaggerating the importance of a May 10 Russia-India wheat deal whereby India gets 50,000 tons of Russian wheat.

India has announced she will pay in barter—not cash—for that grain.

Actually, this country has been selling India about 100,000 tons of wheat a month for some time.

Last Saturday Rep. Cox (D-Ga.) accused India of playing Russia off against the United States in an effort to "blackmail" Congress into a free gift of the 2,000,000 tons.

House leaders also put the relief proposal on their agenda today, but final action was not expected before late in the week.

Senator H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), who with a bipartisan group began pressing for the Indian famine relief last December, told a reporter:

"Everything has been worked out and I expect the bill to pass today with little if any opposition."

Revision of an amendment by Senators McCarran (D-Nev.), Bridges (R-NH), and Ferguson (R-Mich.), appeared to be the only remaining Senate obstacle.

School's Out for Education Program

Teachers Tour Marion Plants In Business, Industry, Education Day

Two hundred and 75 Marion City school teachers joined Marion industrial leaders yesterday in celebrating Business, Industry and Education Day in an all day program which included visits to four Marion industrial plants and a luncheon at Moira Hall.

Schools were dismissed for the day to permit the teachers to participate in the program, which was arranged by the Industrial Leaders Conference and the Manufacturers' Council of the Marion Chamber of Commerce. It was the first time the program has been held in Marion.

Howard Is Chairman

Don Howard, president of the Huber Manufacturing Co. was chairman in charge of the program while Robert Haldeman of the Probst Supply Co. was publicity chairman.

Robert T. Mason, president of the Marion Broadcasting Co., was featured speaker at the luncheon. He spoke briefly on the "Free Enterprise System and Its Preservation in America."

He was introduced by Mr. Howard who served as toastmaster, and who also introduced Very Rev. William J. Spickerman, V. F., pastor of St. Mary Catholic Church and head of St. Mary Parochial School, Rev. Father Hugh Murphy, assistant pastor of St. Mary Catholic Church and a member of the parochial school

He's No Milquetoast

Gen. Bradley's Mild Manner Deceptive

WASHINGTON, May 15—(AP)—The lanky, lantern-jawed soldier who steps into the Senate spotlight today looks like he wouldn't say boo to a goose.

He would, though, if he thought it was necessary.

Gen Omar Nelson Bradley is a mild-mannered man. As any number of people have pointed out, he looks like a school teacher. His forehead is wide, his voice is unemphatic, he even wears tortoise-shell glasses. He doesn't smoke. He's never been known (this is a general we're talking about, mind you) to cuss out a subordinate.

But the Senate armed services and foreign relations committees will find that the Milquetoast manner is deceptive when they quiz plain Omar Bradley about the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Bradley says what he thinks, if the occasion seems to call for it. This one does.

Two other five-star generals have taken the witness stand before Bradley: MacArthur himself, military-hero, vivid of personality, storm center of a boiling controversy; and Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall, impressive in manner, a figure of military prestige.

Now comes Bradley, the schoolmaster's son, the "G-I's general," the man who went through the greatest war in history without so much as owning a Sam Browne belt or a dress cap.

Bradley has small liking for the spotlight. He has little stomach for appearances before senators. He said as much in a recent speech at Chapel Hill, N. C.:

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff by law are military advisers to the President. We render our advice to him on a military point of view. If we are going to be of use to the President, we feel our advice should be confidential. We would be destroying our usefulness if it was public."

Bradley is chairman of the Joint Chiefs. The senators can be expected to pry loose a good deal of his advice before they get through.

John Crosby is in Europe on vacation. In his absence his column will be written by friends.

By TALLULAH BANKHEAD

Away back in 1911, or some such, "Rube" Marquard, a wry-necked left-hander with a sharp curve and a blazing fast ball, waxed so rash as to marry Blossom Seeley, a rowdy little soubrette who could inflame the peasants with a popular song. In a fit of lunacy Miss Seeley decided that her act might be enhanced, her salary rocket, did she share the platforms with the "Rube," then a Giant hero. On the dubious theory that is a provider he should be gainfully employed the year round, Mr Marquard agreed to this conspiracy, shortly found himself on the stage of Hammerstein's Victoria in the heart of Times Square engaged in banter with his mate, even helping her out with a ballad.

A critic, whose name I can't remember, on viewing the act of a Monday afternoon thus appraised the Rube's contribution to stage history: "Marquard can sing as well as Caruso can pitch."

* * *

AS YOU MAY have guessed I'm wrestling with a parable, or an erratic variation thereof. Not so long ago John Crosby, the fugitive conductor of this column, called me of a midnight to suggest that I spin out some 800 words about either the plight or progress of radio and television which, provided it not outrage the canons of good taste or sound subversive, he would just use as a guest column. 'A guest column," I rebutted, "Why? Have you succumbed to the singing commercial" Or are you thinking of getting into a more reputable ousiness?"

Mr Crosby quickly briefed me An old Francophile he felt that he would be a traitor to his emotions did he not participate in some small degree in the celebration of the 2000th anniversary of the city of Paris, prove by trial and error to his own satisfaction the validity of the ancient axiom, "Champagne is the imprisoned laughter of the peasant girls of France." 'Don't you think it's a little late to go into that?" I vollied (from Tennyson's 'vollied and thundered' as in 'The Charge of the Light Brigade'). "I thought you were an old Martini man!

"Don't try to measure my motives by your standards," replied Mr. Crosby, a little churlishly I thought. "Will you or won't you'" "Will I or won't I what?" I shouted. I had to shout because my mynah bird had gone berserk and was making nasty cracks about room service "Write a guest column, witch," replied my gallant foe. "And pronto' I take off at dawn, into the wild blue yonder. Paris calls, and that's a call no man in his right mind can ignore. Ever ride up the Champs Elysees at dusk, through the Arc and into the Bois?"

With that I capitulated, and that's why I'm presently all tangled up with "Rube" Marquard and Blossom Seeley, with 400 words to go. Well, as my better said first, I can write as well as Crosby can act. Or can I?

I've seen Crosby act and he has touches of all the Barrymores, Coquelin, E H Sothern and Milton Berle. In front of a microphone he also gives off a slight aroma of what is perhaps Virginia's most tasty product It happened like this

* * *

AS SOME OF you may know I have lately been curdling Sabbath evenings as mistress of ceremonies of "The Big Show, six to seven-thirty. NBC. It was on the night of April 8, 1951, that Mr Crosby crashed into the program, dressed to the nines, his hair on fire, to banter words with the likes of Fred Allen, Rudy Vallee, Jimmy Durante, and Vivian Blaine, to say nothing of this guest whatyumacallit.

Mr. Crosby used a very cunning device to muscle his way into the proceedings. He interrupted Fred Allen to say that he was a messenger from the Newspaper Guild, come to pin a Page-One Award on me "for putting new life into radio," six words which he delivered with both eloquence and conviction. When the ovation from the audience was stilled I bussed Mr. Crosby on the brow (a salute which, since radio is vocal rather than visual, was unseen by an audience conservatively estimated at 30,000,000, not counting Bette Davis). Then I cleared up his identity to Fred and Jimmy, both of whom thought that he was Bing Crosby's son.

I must say that given his head, Crosby took the bit in his mouth, lived up to all the best traditions of my craft He stole two laughs from Durante, stepped on Allen's lines, and in a spasm of candor named his qualifications as a critic. "A college education, a typewriter and a gall bladder condition." When I suggested that his appearance on 'The Big Show' might enlighten him on the more subtle arcana of the medium, thus enable him to more intelligently judge 'The Big Show,' he acted like that Spartan lad who warmed a starving wolf under his jacket only to have the ungrateful cur eat out his innards. What do you think was the ingrate's last quip. Only this

"I wrote by review yesterday It starts off, 'The Big Show' this week was given a tremendous lift by the appearance of yours truly, whose ready wit and charm caused the professionals to turn pale with envy."

* * *

SINCE I'M notorious for my modesty, devoted to self-depreciation, and cramped by a lofty ethical code, I'll not resort to a piece of Crosby treachery in my invasion of his field. Why? Well, dahlings, Crosby will be writing other columns, offering other judgments. I'd better keep a civil tongue in my head.

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

"Only one question," my mother-in-law said. "After luncheon, when we go up to the Veritzen suite, will you be able to come up to us there, and go over things with us?"

"Of course," I told her, amazed and delighted to see the sparkle in her eyes and the expression of her face. She had dropped ten years at the prospect of housekeeping in the Philip Veritzen suite at the top of the Lansfield hotel which was going to afford sanctuary for young Peter until the peril that threatened this pitiful little protege of Katharine's was lifted.

"On second thought," she said, "don't come up till we've been there an hour. I shall want to make some lists of things we may need."

She glanced at Katharine with a look which held a bit of challenge in it.

"You should be free for the care of young Peter and for emergencies," she said. "So I think I had better take over the housekeeping."

"I can't think of a nicer arrangement," Katharine told her promptly. "But there must be one stipulation. I must help you with all the work."

"Don't worry!" the older woman said. "I'll call on you whenever I need you."

But there was an intonation in her voice which spelled: "Hands off!" and uneasiness mingled with my mirth as I went out of the room. My mother-in-law was "feeling her oats," and I did not envy Katharine her task of keeping the aged woman from overdoing.

But I dismissed my anxiety with a firm hand. Between us, I was sure Katharine and I could manage the situation, and just now, I had much more pressing matters before me. I must report to my father, and consult Mr. Olsen about the problems which the occupancy of the Philip Veritzen suite would bring. And I must speed my son and my three nephews on their way to college. I was thankful that my mother-in-law had stipulated on an hour after her arrival in the Veritzen suite for her consultation with me. That would give me plenty of time with the boys, although I knew that I would have risked her displeasure and held out for the longer time if she had named a shorter one. Nothing, I told myself fiercely, should interfere with my goodbye to my boys.

The four boys were playing bridge on a table in the window alcove, and Hank, whose turn it was to look on, looked up instead when I came in.

"The great minds are still down the hall," he said, "and we haven't heard from Room Service yet."

"You won't," I told them, "for several minutes. Sit down" I told the four boys who had risen to their feet, when they realized I was in the room. "I'm going down the hall to see your grandfather and Mr. Olsen. If Room Service comes up, let me know at once. I'll be down in your father's room."

"Okay!" they chorused, but they did not go back to their card game at once, remained standing instead until I had gone on into the corridor leading to Dicky's room.

Even as I lifted my hand to knock on Dicky's bedroom door, my father's voice came to my ears. He was speaking heavily, with concern.

"What do you mean, the Philip Veritzen suite is vulnerable?" he asked.

Typhus Hits Reds In Korea

Toll May Exceed That From Battle

PHILADELPHIA, May 15 — (AP)—The Army's deputy surgeon general said today it is possible that more Communists have been stricken by typhus fever than by United Nations weapons.

Major Gen. George H. Armstrong reported that United Nations and U. S. forces have been free of epidemics, while enemy troops have suffered "in an extreme degree" from many diseases, including leprosy, smallpox tetanus and typhus.

"Typhus fever has been so extensive on the enemy side that there is reason to think that possibly more North Koreans and Chinese Communists have been stricken down by this malady than by United Nations weapons," he said in an address prepared for the Philadelphia medical service reserve officers.

The Army last week estimated total enemy non-battle casualties at 125,880 through April 30, against 710,660 in the combat categories—killed, wounded, prisoners.

Armstrong reported only 25 cases of smallpox among United Nations troops, most of them among non-Americans, and no typhus fever.

He said between 97 and 98 out of every 100 cases admitted to American military hospitals in the Far East recover.

Armstrong said many captured Americans have been "tortured, neglected and humiliated" by the Reds. In contrast, he said, more than 13,000 enemy prisoners are now receiving treatment in U. S. military hospitals in Korea.

Marines Cite Husband Of County Woman

Marine Lt. Evieo Ragsdale, husband of Mrs. Leah Rodefer Ragsdale, formerly of Prospect has been awarded the commendation ribbon with Combat "V" for his excellent service in the line of duty while serving with a Marine artillery battery during operations in Korea.

The citation accompanying the award reads in part . . . "Second Lt. Ragsdale, serving as a maintenance officer, displayed great skill, courage and confidence when heavy enemy automatic weapons fire immobilized one of the prime movers in the convoy. Heedless of his own personal safety, he exposed himself to enemy fire and supervised the unloading of the prime mover, then ordered and directed the destruction of the howitzer. Continuing to expose himself to heavy fire, he directed and supervised the removing of the howitzer and prime mover from the road His actions set an example to all who worked with him and permitted the remainder of the convoy to continue its movements. Second Lt. Ragsdale's conduct throughout was in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service."

Lt. Ragsdale has been with the Marines 16 years, including World War II. He is now stationed at Camp Pendleton, California as a training officer.

Mrs Ragsdale, and son John, age eight months, are residing at Oceanside, Calif. She is the daughter of John Rodefer of Prospect.

WASHINGTON, May 15—(AP)—The U. S. Air Force has lost 212 planes in Korea as compared to 149 lost by the Communists.

In making these figures public, the Air Force offered no explanation, however American aircraft have been operating around-the-clock against all kinds of targets, while the Reds have confined their activities generally to hit-and-run strikes from the safety of Manchurian bases.

The plane loss figures were issued Saturday at a new conference by Lt. Gen. Otto P. Weyland who recently arrived from the Far East to become deputy commander of the tactical air force with headquarters at Langley Field, Va.

Another Offensive

THE Red Chinese are reported ready to begin their second drive this spring. The object of these drives is to break through the defense of the United States and its allies in Korea. Thereafter, if all went well, the Korean peninsula could be made safe for communism.

The Red Chinese are prepared to pay a great price for the chance to do this. That is, the political leaders of Red China are prepared to pay the price. Their currency is the lives of Chinese soldiers plus the weapons being supplied by their sponsor, the Soviet Union. The Communist strategists obviously believe they can wear down the United Nations will to fight.

The United States, on the other hand, is prepared to pay a great price to keep this from happening. The argument in this country is not whether to abandon Korea to the Reds, or whether to stay there. It is whether or not the United States should step up the rate of its own military activity, in the hope of forcing the Chinese Communists to retreat into Manchuria and stay there. The decision about staying or getting out is being made by Americans, not by the United Nations.

There are some Americans who think the United States should pull out of Korea. But they are a minority. The majority of Americans at home and the majority of U. S. fighting men in Korea want to get out of Korea as quickly as possible—but not until it is certain that the peninsula has been made unsafe for communism.

The campaign about to open is the fourth attempt to conquer Korea—the opening drive last June, the year-end campaign when the Red Chinese entered the war, the spring offensive which started late in April and now a second spring offensive in May.

Best Ever

THE combination of perfect weather and May's arrival at its midway mark has brought summer's best dress rehearsal in human memory to a close.

Dress rehearsal?

It began away back in February with the first premonitions of spring. The cast began to assemble slowly—the migratory birds, the northward-moving sun and the upward-moving greenery of the earth. Costumers and scene designers were called in to provide suitable color and backgrounds.

The script for the play, of course, was the standard one. It never changes. But each annual revival of "the greatest spectacle on earth" is in new hands. And in one sense, there is a new audience each year, too. At least, it is as though the old audience had seen the show before.

Gradually, everything falls into place, until it is finally time for dress rehearsal—the breathless occasion when everything is ready for inspection. That was what has happened since last Saturday—the final viewing before summer is a finished production, reday for the long run.

It Shouldn't Happen

THE new price ceilings on beef sold at retail are theoretically sound. That is, they take some of the price pressure off people who sell meat at retail, keep price pressure from being added to people who buy meat at retail and do not penalize unduly the people who supply the beef.

Five years ago, price ceilings on beef and other food commodities were theoretically sound. The average retail price in large cities for round steak was 42 cents a pound. But there was a catch to it. Almost no one had any round steak to sell at that price.

Cattle growers were refusing to send their animals to market at the prices fixed by the government. They were sending great numbers of them to market, however, at prices fixed by public demand. They were doing this through the black market in some instances and through packing houses which were not controlled by federal law. Some growers were hanging on, waiting for something to turn up. Something finally did turn up. Price control was lifted from livestock and meat just before the 1946 election.

Thereafter, beef and all kinds of meat became plentiful. Prices rose just like the prices of just about everything else. The price of round steak in large cities last March averaged a little better than a dollar a pound.

There now will be an effort to whittle down the price of beef. According to the people in charge of the whittling, no one will be justified in resisting the effort. It should not happen. But it will happen. Beef growers and beef consumers are not interested in theory. They are interested in beef, or a basis of supply and demand, and anyone who interferes with the arrangement, no matter how worthy his motive, has a hard row to hoe.

Did You Know

Every half hour in the day during the last war, America's steel mills produced more than enough steel to build and completely equip one of the Navy's new destroyers.

* * *

In 1942 the steel industry produced a total of 11 million tons of plates for wartime use—enough to girdle the globe with a nine foot band of steel half an inch thick.

MacArthur Earthquake

By David Lawrence

Tremors Touched Off by Ouster Still Raging

WASHINGTON

THE MACARTHUR earthquake which arrived from Tokyo just about a month ago has left a series of tremors that show no signs of abating.

The first impression that just an emotional disturbance had been stirred up over a dramatic personality is giving way to something more fundamental.

If the only thing concerned was the dismissal of a commander who differed on policies, the episode would many days ago have vanished from the headlines. As it is the controversy is getting more and more intense because deeper and more lasting issues involving war and national security have been raised and the Senate hearings have revealed much information hitherto suppressed. The broader questions which now are developing may be summarized thus:

MOLEY

* * *

1. IS AMERICAN public opinion going to accept the thesis that somewhere between 250,000 and 350,000 Americans shall be committed indefinitely to the war in Korea in which casualties already have reached more than 65,000? This is far more than an emotional questions throughout the country, though at times in official Washington the indifference to our own casualties is quite surprising.

2. Is American public opinion going to hold President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson responsible for failing to be more assertive during the last ten months when war materials from British Commonwealth countries were shipped to Red China?

3. Is American public opinion going to insist on a change in the charter of the United Nations so that a war against the U. N. must be shared in by all members with proportionate sacrifices? Or is faith in the future of the United Nations likely to be weakened?

4. Is American public opinion going to accept the proposed appeasement plan whereby even though the United States is against the seating of Red China, the assembly of the U. N. by majority vote can reward the aggressor? Secretary Acheson has heretofore indicated that the American government will abide by the vote of the other nations on the issue of seating Red China. This is called a "political" matter even though to American troops in Korea it has been a military matter ever since the Red Chinese made war on them last November.

* * *

5. IS AMERICAN public opinion going to accept "war of attrition" in which constant emphasis is placed on the number of Chinese being killed but no effort is apparently to be made to end the war in Korea by destroying enemy bases of supply in Manchuria across the Yalu river? This could become an emotional issue, too, for the American people in the past have never accepted the idea that they should fight wars to a draw or that they should continue them in a single area indefinitely in the hope that the enemy may get tired.

6. Is American public opinion going to demand an overhauling of the whole defense setup in Washington with particular relationship to the haphazard way that military advice is disregarded or superseded by the Department of State under the convenient excuse that this is all "political" and concerns our allies?

7. Will the MacArthur proposition be accepted that the nation which furnishes 90 percent of the men and resources in a war should not yield to the decisions of its allies who make token contributions?

* * *

THESE ARE THE basic issues that have arisen on the international front and, in the end, both the departments of Defense and State will come in for a considerable airing of their methods of operation.

The Senate committee hearings are, moreover, only a forerunner of more activity in other directions. General MacArthur, having donned civilian clothes, will accept invitations from State legislatures and cties from coast to coast and express himself freely—not on political or personal issues—but on the basic question of making America strong enough to protect its own interests even if its allies should develop with respect to Europe some day, as they have toward Asia, an unwillingness to take the risks of a showdown with Communist imperialism.

On Dilemmas

By TRUMAN TWILL

TAKE shaving for example. Here is a dilemma that well-groomed men struggle with once a day. Dozens of manufacturers strive against one another to sell what each of them claims is the best implement for the purpose.

Yet the surest way to spark off a discussion in a group of men is to mention shaving. It will turn out that every man in the group has tried this implement and that implement and is still looking for a better mousetrap.

The best that any one of them can say about the mousetrap his whiskers are caught in at the moment is that it is not as bad as some other one he once tried. A few have quit looking, convinced that there is nothing better to be found. But most men keep looking—and complaining.

They believe, because they want to believe, that sometime shaving will be easy, that it will cease to be an annoyance and that they will look forward to it as eagerly as they look forward to their first cup of breakfast coffee. They never will.

It is not the shaving implements that are at fault. They all have their followings, but the followers are involuntary. It is not the way they shave that irks them but the fact they must shave at all. But neither do they want to let their whiskers grow. They are in a dilemma. They are in a lot of dilemmas.

Men want to be free, but they do not want to perform the endless chore of being vigilant against threats to freedom. They want peace, but they begrudge its costs and privations. They want security, but they get squeamish about perspiration.

They want clean politics, but they do not want to get busy on dirty politics with a bucket and a brush. They want tolerance, but they do not want to endure the painful agony of getting rid of their own prejudices.

They want the right to clear the air with debate, but they back away from admitting there might be two sides. They want to put up a solid front against the bully-boys, but they flinch at the idea of trying to get along with their allies.

And so they grouse and groan over inadequate implements studiously avoiding the real trouble, which is the dilemmas, not the tools for easing the suckers who cannot escape from them.

How Long Can He Lug It Around?

Serious Troubles in Iran

By Walter Lippmann

ALTHOUGH the troubles in Iran have been almost entirely obscured by the MacArthur controversy, they are very serious. An indication of how serious they are is that "The Economist," which is immensely influential, which is antisocialist in its internal policy and strongly pro-American in its foreign policy, published an editorial on May 5 which ended as follows:

"The whole structure of western policy is crucially at stake in Persia . . . It is imperative that America, like Britain, should back up its partner with full loyalty in action, however many doubts and hesitations may be felt and publicly expressed. Washington should realize that this is a test of the partnership that is likely to be decisive and cannot be evaded."

LIPPMANN

Language so passionate as this is not usual in "The Economist," and directed at the United States it is starting. How can it be explained? By what, presumably, lies behind the following passage in the same article: "The effect of American counsels so far has been to weaken rather than strengthen British resolution. Quite apart from the State Department's tendency to misunderstand the passions that agitate the Middle East nationalists and the kind of measure needed to deal with them, it would be deplorable if Dr. Mossadegh should be acting in the belief that a team of American technicians would be quickly available to take over and run an industry expropriated from its British owners."

* * *

THIS IS A very ugly accusation. It is in substance that the Iranian government would not have risked expropriating and ousting the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. if it did not think that the American oil companies, which have no concessions in Iran, would step in and do for Iran what Iran cannot do for itself—namely operate the oil business.

If there is even a shadow of truth in this accusation, no time should be lost in dealing with it conclusively. There should be no possibility of misunderstanding anywhere, least of all in Tehran, that if the oil industry of southern Iran is to be conducted by any foreign company, it must be by the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. on terms acceptable to Iran and to Britain.

No American company can be substituted for the British company. No Soviet company can be substituted for the British company, first because it would be illegal and entirely unacceptable to the United States as well as to Britain, and second, it is technically impossible because of the distance and the mountains to take the oil of southern Iran to Russia.

* * *

THERE ARE, therefore, two choices open to Iran. One is to have Iran operate the oil business Legally as a matter of sovereign power, Iran is entitled to do that.

But as a matter of fact Iran cannot do that because she does not have the capital, the technicians, the business executives, the necessary machinery, the tankers and the world-wide commercial organization which are necessary.

The alternative open to Iran is to make a new deal, more favorable than the old contract, with the British company.

The question, then, is whether, when all this has been made clear in Tehran to Dr. Mossadegh and his followers, Iran would, or in fact could, negotiate a new agreement.

The government of Iran is near to the point of dissolution where it is an open question whether it is capable of enforcing the agreements it might negotiate. The situation is anarchical and there is a reign of terror.

Assuming then that we offer the British government our full support if it compels the Anglo-Iranian company to propose reasonable and generous terms, what would full support mean? Suppose that there is anarchy in the oil fields and the negotations have failed, what does Britain, with our support, do next?

* * *

IN THE OLD days the next step would have been to land troops in the oil fields.

These are not the old days. There is a treaty, signed Feb. 26, 1921, between Iran and the U. S. S. R. which says in Article 6 that "if a third party should attempt to carry out a policy of usurpation by means of armed intervention in Persia, or if such power should desire to use Persian territory as a base of operations against Russia . . . and if the Persian government should not be able to put a stop to such menace after having been once called upon to do so by Russia, Russia shall have the right to advance her troops into the Persian interior for the purpose of carrying out the military operations necessary for its defense."

It would seem to follow then that if British troops were landed with American support, Russia could claim that the 1921 treaty gave her the right "to advance her troops into the Persian interior."

* * *

IT WOULD BE difficult, probably impossible, for America and Britain to go to the Security Council and argue that the Russians were committing an act of aggression if the Russian troops did not move into Persia before the British troops had moved in.

Britain would have to argue that a few troops to maintain order in southern Iran did not constitute "preparations" for "a considerable armed attack upon Russia or the Soviet Republics allied to her."

But the British argument would have to be addressed to the Russian government which would certainly claim the right to decide under its treaty with Iran what was and what was not "preparations" for "a considerable armed attack" in view of the mobility of the United States strategic air force.

There is no escape, I think, from the conclusion that Britain could not intervene lawfully and prudently inside Iran unless she could negotiate an agreement with the Soviet Union—more or less in the spirit of the Anglo-Russian agreement of 1907. That is not likely to happen even if it were judged to be the least unattractive of the real choices open to the west.

So we must hope that somehow—if the American attitude is clarified in Tehran and if the British terms of settlement are improved—that a new agreement will be reached without the use of troops.

Security in Trees

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — A young Pittsburgh minister thinks the 40,000 evergreen trees he has planted will keep him in his old age. Rev. Stewart P. Robinson, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, and his wife planted 20,000 of the trees themselves on a farm the couple owns near Delhi, N. Y. The other 20,000 were planted by a professional. Robinson hopes to plant another 100,000 evergreen in coming years. Although he doesn't expect to get rich, he says the trees are a good investment for the future. He adds: "If this inflation keeps on, I can be sure my investment is growing anyway."

Marion County History Brevities

First election held in Bowling Green Township was at Thomas Parr's residence in the spring of 1838. Parr was elected township treasurer and Silas H. Cleveland, clerk. The first justice of peace elected after the organization of the township was Joseph Guthery, father of John D. and Isaac F. Guthery, who was commissioned May 14, 1839. William Graham, who resided in the township, was commissioned justice of the peace April 13, 1838, having been elected before Bowling Green was set off from Montgomery township.

Better Walkie-Talkie

CAMDEN, N. J.—(AP)— The walkie-talkie has been streamlined for the Signal Corps by the Radio Corporation of America to half its former size and weight and made to double its range, now five miles. From 55 pounds the walkie-talkie has been scaled down to a mere 25 pounds for a complete set that includes batteries, handset, antennas and spare parts. The transmitter-receiver unit alone tips the scales at only nine pounds.

Airmen Fill Chapels

SAN ANTONIO — (AP) — The men of the U. S. Air Force are turning to religion. An average of 12,000 airmen now attend the 115 services offered by Lackland Air Force Base chaplains in the 13 chapels on the base. There are more than 30 chaplains representing all faiths. Sunday services are held from early morning until late evening. Because the chapels won't hold the crowds, two theaters and a large assembly tent are used for religious services.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Video Education Marches On

Television in public schools is getting a bigger play every day. New York's State Board of Regents now proposes ten video stations in a three-million-dollar program. Similar moves are reported from all over the country. The Little Video Schoolhouse is bound to be a success if we can get teacher into a cowboy suit and show her how to leap into the saddle from the Sourdough Bar. To speed up the general idea we propose that, in an experimental way, a school here and there be classified as the "Three R's Ranch."

* * *

A hasty check shows a shortage of schoolma'ams who can handle a cow pony well. And where is there a public-school principal who looks convincing peeking out from behind a boulder and taking pot-shots at a gang of horse thieves while at the same time giving instructions in botany? We are all for video in the schools. The slate and blackboard ceased to grip the kids long ago. It is a visual age. Video can bring to the small fry an education with incidental music, acrobats and a good comedian. Is there anyone to say that long division cannot be made more attractive with Howdy-Doody in it now and then? What educator will contend that a posse in a cloud of dust will not help hold the kids through the arithmetic hour?

PHILLIPS

* * *

There is also the element of color and charm in appealing to children. Our schoolteachers have never been chosen for beauty. But the day is at hand when they may have to have the equipment of television personalities and the routines of masters of ceremonies. Willie will not crawl like a snail unwillingly to school if teacher is photogenic and can get lots of action into the program.

* * *

It is possible that the time will come when all gal teachers will be known as "Nell," "Ginger" or "Salomy Jane" and all male teachers as "Steve," "Cactus," "Jesse" or "Buck." School may be opened with a volley instead of a bell. Sheriff badges may be given to the smartest pupils. There may be buttered popcorn machines in all school buildings. Who can tell?

* * *

Trouble is anticipated in retaining teachers. As soon as Miss Mollett, the history teacher, develops real video form she will, of course, get offers from the regular networks and become a factor in cigaret, beer or face-cream promotion. Voice of Junior as he watches his home video: "Look, Pop! There's my old spelling teacher. I remember her before she got $5,000 a broadcast!"

* * *

The traditional "Harry has nine apples, Charlie has eight apples; how many apples has Fred if there were 84 apples to start with?" will no longer stick pupils. The way out is simple: Cut the apples and substitute Colt automatics.

* * *

New York educators emphasize that the treasures of the museums and art galleries will be brought to the schools by video. They had better bring 'em with snappy music. (How about a "Stop the Museum" program, with a jackpot to the kid recognizing the Aztec urn and the Egyptian mummy?)

First TV Lady

By Inez Robb

NEW YORK

AMERICANS who currently describe television as in its infancy should meet the woman who really knew TV twenty-three years ago when it was scarcely more than a gleam in its inventors' eyes.

In fact, some of the daring experimenters in the field actually dragooned the lady into playing the lead in the first drama ever televised in the United States. It may surprise a lot of people, who think of television as something invented day-before-yesterday to know that the drama was successfully telecast on Sept. 11, 1928, almost 23 years ago.

Inez Robb

"And it was telecast all of three miles," explained Izetta Jewel, one of the most famous actresses of her day, as she recalled her foray into television at a time when a crystal radio set was still regarded as fairly hot stuff!

• • •

IN 1928, MISS JEWEL, who in private life is the wife of Col. Hugh Miller, was living in Schenectady, N. Y., where the colonel was head of the civil engineering department of Union College. Thus the actress, who had been leading lady to such stars as Otis Skinner and James K. Hackett, was literally next door to the General Electric Laboratories.

So one day Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, the Einstein of the laboratories, asked Miss Jewel to come over and lend a helping hand with an experiment that involved the simultaneous broadcast of pictures and dialogue.

"They decided to broadcast 'The Queen's Messenger', a one-act play by J. Harley Manners," Miss Jewel said. "I was the Russian spy who lured the queen's messenger, dispatch case, secret papers and all, to my apartment.

"TO ANYONE WHO saw the telecast of the Kefauver committee hearings and the return of Gen. MacArthur to New York, it is hard to believe that this first telecast was on a screen only three and one-half inches square! Or that scientists were jubilant when it carried three miles to Dr. Alexanderson's home.

"But people who are accustomed to modern television will probably find it even more incredible that on this first drama telecast, it was only possible to show the head and shoulders of the actors. And we really couldn't move more than an inch or so in any direction.

"I suppose nothing will better demonstrate how stilted and limited were the camera range and the dramatic action than the fact that the laboratories had to get four persons to act the two parts in the play. I played the Russian spy from the shoulders up. But another woman played my hands!"

• • •

FOUR STATIONARY cameras were used in the telecast. One was focused on Miss Jewel, one on Maurice Randall, the queen's messenger, and one each on both pairs of stand-in hands.

She played the part of the Russian spy, Miss Jewel remembers, in an evening dress without benefit of plunging neckline." The dress was positively mid-Victorian by present television standards," she added. "You couldn't catch a date, much less a spy, in it today."

This pioneer foray into television was recalled by Miss Jewel, who now lives in La Jolla, Cal., as she sat glued to the TV screen in the New York home of her daughter, Mrs. Rex Smith, the wife of the American Air Lines vice president.

• • •

MISS JEWELL, a handsome, sparkling lady in her early sixties, has been in New York tape-recording interviews with celebrities for the daily radio program she conducts over station KCBQ, San Diego. But it seemed to me the lady's large, lively blue eyes were fixed on the TV screen with a speculative as well as a professional eye, against the coming of the coaxial cable to California.

It would be a sort of joke, she admitted, if she ever got round to acting in TV again. She said:

"To be perfectly honest, when I made that first telecast in 1928, I thought it was all pretty ridiculous. It seemed a very rigid art, too confined to a small place.

"Frankly, I didn't ever expect it to amount to anything in my lifetime. And now look at the darn thing!"

Fight In Asia?

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

WILL America be forced to fight a great land war in Asia—in the near or far future?

It is the belief of many army ground commanders in Korea that the American army should avoid an all-out war in that area if it is at all possible to do so.

"The big lesson we have learned here," one veteran officer told me, "is not to get too deeply involved in this part of the world in ground warfare. It isn't for us."

HAL BOYLE

His argument was that the continent of Asia favored the enemy method of infantry battle and hindered ours. It gives the other side every advantage. It holds none for us.

This officer had held a high staff rank in the European War—felt that to win an Asiatic victory through land battles would cost more blood than the American nation would spend.

"It would bleed us dry," he said. "The enemy has so much potential manpower and so much landscape. Taking landscape doesn't win a war—as Napoleon and Hitler found out in their marches on Moscow. You have to destroy the enemy, his industry—and his ability to resist."

HE POINTED OUT that Europe's fine road network had enabled the American army in the last war to utilize its superior mobility and mechanized firepower. Once our tanks and mobile guns had broken through the enemy's forward crust they could race at will through his rear lines and chop them up.

"Asia doesn't have those roads," he said. "And our mobility is reduced to the minimum. That means our infantry and their infantry would have to slug it out too much on a rifle to rifle basis."

He felt that even tactical control of the air would be insufficient to overcome this handicap.

"It is too expensive for us even if we killed five men to every one we lost," he said. "The Oriental people simply don't regard human life the way we do."

• • •

RECENTLY I RECEIVED a letter from another veteran commander of the Korean campaign.

"The Korean war continues to be an enigma to me," he said. "It has become inexplicable to me not because of its see-saw character or its political implications—I have neither the responsibility for nor interest in the diplomatic significance of Korea.

"What I would like to understand is why we have suffered so many casualties against an enemy who is not, and never has been, as formidable as the Jap or the German of World War II. I am not at all satisfied that the so-called Chinese 'human sea' mass attacks can destroy a well-supplied, adequately mechanized defender. Nor do I believe that Napoleonic 'mass attack' tactics have replaced again the flexible, thin-line attack of small, coordinated units.

"In other words, one machine-gunner (even if his morale is not of the best) can raise havoc with an attacker who is advancing in mass without adequate artillery and air support."

THIS OFFICER RECALLED how American infantry used to beat back Japanese night banzai attacks in the last war and added:

"But then we had the troops to do the job. Units advanced shoulder-to-shoulder all across the enemy island. But in Korea shortage of troops and the terrain make flank security exceedingly difficult, if not impossible. Consequently, an enemy night attack can (and does) penetrate our lines and puts the moral courage of men to a severe test."

This inability to make a shoulder-to-shoulder defense or attack in Korea would be multiplied if American infantry had to fight on continential Asia. That's why many experienced ground commanders believe that if a third world war breaks out the United States should mass its land troops in an arena where they are more likely to win at least cost.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

HEARD on this beat: It can be reliably reported that the "little red-head," Walter Reuther, would almost immediately paralyze thousands of plants across the nation if the country's wage boss, Erick Johnston, actually follows through on secret plans to ban the 'escalator clause'. This is the gimmick which automatically gives millions of union workers a pay raise every time the cost of living goes up.

Victor Riesel

Reuther will fight to keep his million followers covered by the clause which already has given them many millions in wage hikes. And this means that the nation's automobile, aircraft and tool plants may become the front in a bitter battle between the hard-hitting Auto Union chief and the government. That is, unless Johnson kills his own plans right away.

A FEW DAYS ago some lucky longshoremen in the Swedish port of Malmoe were hoisting crates of dried fruit off a Romanian ship when they found the box bottoms plastered with strange leaflets. They soon discovered that Romanian longshoremen had learned of our practice of stuffing propaganda into holds—and this was an anti-Soviet message.

Translated, the throwaways said:

"Please don't buy these Communist goods. The Soviets are stealing them from the mouths of our children. We hardly have enough bread, and our children in towns have not seen fruit for the last five years. For the money you pay for it, the Soviets will buy guns for use against you. Help us and you help yourself!"

Apparently the Romanian union dockers had risked death at the hands of ever-present secret wharf police to get these words to the West. Yet the West still buys luxuries from behind the Curtain. I've just learned, for example, that American firms paid millions of dollars these past few weeks for 75,000 Russian marmot and 150,000 Russian muskrat skins—and got State Dept. passports to go and deal with the Soviet Fur Trust.

And all this blood trade at the very moment when the Treasury Dept., in a letter dated April 18, signed by the Commissioner of Customs, reveals that after pressure from this column it banned Soviet crab meat because it had "full and sufficient evidence" of Russian slave labor — and that proof of this was "obtained from various sources, including Japan." Okay, now let's make it public, so there'll be fewer guns for Soviet satellite troops.

THOUSANDS OF FIGHTING G.I.'s in Korea won't need to worry about subsistence for their families if a new plan, recently launched by Schenley Industries, and other large companies such as Eastman Kodak and Standard Oil of New Jersey, sweeps the country.

And it should. Under this project, a military benefit plan devised by Schenley, any one of its 12,000 workers going into uniform will get his full salary for the first three months and then 25 percent of his pay for the duration, providing he was with the firm before the Korean war. These men who joined the corporation later, and then were drafted, will get a straight 25 percent for as long as they're in.

HERE'S LABOR'S political strategy for the 1952 presidential campaign: There is no longer any great affection for Harry Truman inside labor. But the national union chiefs have decided not to go in for any independent political action because they now feel that no one but Mr. Truman will name the next Democratic presidential nominee. At first, when he refused to back up labor in its battle with Charles Wilson, many of the labor giants decided to build a political machine which could capture sections of the Democratic Party and so influence the '52 nominations. And their man was, and is, Illinois Sen. Paul Douglas. But that was when Mr. Truman had sent word he wouldn't run again.

Now, no one is certain what the President plans. So labor will work closely with Mr. Truman for these reasons: If he runs, and wins, labor can still get inside the White House. If he decides not to run, labor hopes to convince him to throw his support to Paul Douglas in the convention.

• • •

THE SENATE'S investigation of the Robert-Taft-Joe Ferguson campaign in Ohio is scheduled for Washington hearings the last week this month.

Next week in Chicago, the A.F.L.'s leaders will clash on whether to stay in politics. Battling for the end of labor's political league will be tough old Dan Tobin, the Teamsters' leaders, who said recently, "We have very few friends in either party in Washington." Fighting for pushing the A.F.L. further into politics will be the militant David Dubinsky, of the Ladies' Garment Workers. And most active candidate for leadership of the league, if it stays in business, is Andy Biemiller, popular former Socialist and labor Congressman from Wisconsin.

• • •

HARRY BRIDGES' lefty Long shoremen's Union laid out $75,337 for his defense in his recent perjury trial . . .

Behind the scenes of the House Un-American Activities Committee, Congressman Kearny (Rep., N. Y.) has demanded a swift probe of charges that special Communist agents have infiltrated the vital submarine and naval base at Portsmouth, New Hampshire.

Gen. MacArthur's intelligence chief, Gen. Willoughby, will not be queried by the House Committee, but by the Senate sub-committee on security, when he returns from Tokyo to answer questions on whether Americans were involved in the Soviet's Sorge Spy ring, one of the most successful espionage rings ever devised.

Here is exactly what labor will be fighting for in the next year: Equal pay for the same kind of work in every part of the country. More money for night work. The right to force the nation's major companies to distribute their production equally throughout their plants. A guaranteed annual income for all workers. Longer vacations. And a new series of holidays.

Harding Area Scouters On 2-Week Trip

Three Scouters from the Harding Area Council were in a party which left Marion Sunday for a two-weeks tour and camping trip in the heart of the Southern Rocky Mountains at Philmont, the National Senior Scout Reservation in northeastern New Mexico.

Dr. Robert T. Gray of Prospect, Council President, Dr. A. J. Wagner, of Marion, and Dr. D. D. Bibler of Bucyrus represented the local council.

Approximately 50 Scouters from the nine Scout Councils in Northwest Ohio made up the group. They will travel by car going to Indiana, Denver, Colorado, New Mexico and other points of interest enroute, arriving at Philmont May 16.

They plan to spend a week on the 230,000 acre Scout ranch engaged in a program of hiking, fishing, horse-back riding, camping and exploring.

They plan to return via a southern route which will include Tulsa where they will visit "Philtower," property of the Boy Scouts given by the Phillips Oil Co.

Before returning home the men will attend the National Council annual meeting in Chicago May 25, 26, 27. All three of the men are Harding Council delegates to the meeting.

Inflation Curbs Have Housewives Confused

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

IT'S no wonder housewives get confused.

One day they are warned against the evils of hoarding. The next day along comes a bulletin from the U. S. Department of Agriculture advising them to stock up now on sugar that will be needed later in the summer for home canning.

There is much hullabaloo about price control and anti-inflation rulings, yet beefsteak still costs as much as caviar when they try to buy it at the butcher shop.

They are urged to return to the thrifty home crafts of grandmother's day to beat inflation at the start. Then they learn of a proposal to slap a federal excise tax on home sewing machines.

This last proposal has started off a chain reaction of protest not only from the sewing machine manufacturers, but also from home economics specialists, home sewers and sewing experts.

* * *

ONE OF THE LATTER is Mary Brooks Picken, who probably has done more than anyone else to popularize home sewing throughout the nation, through her books, classes and lectures. Testifying before the House ways and means committee, Miss Picken told the congressman a thing or two, as follows:

"The government is trying to combat inflation, trying to get women to conserve materials, spend less and save more. I know of no way in which all three of these objectives can be accomplished so effectively as by encouraging women to sew. The most essential item of equipment for that purpose is an electric sewing machine. A burdensome tax on that machine serves only to make it more difficult for a woman to own one, or to place it entirely beyond her reach.

* * *

TO ILLUSTRATE her point, Miss Picken displayed a child's simple cotton dress, which she had purchased in a New York department store for $10.95. Then she showed the committee an exact duplicate of the dress she had made on her own sewing machine for exactly $3.12—a saving of more than 200 percent.

Being a gal who knows her economics as well as her needlework, Miss Picken went on to explain that home sewing conserves manpower as well as money.

She pointed out that as more garments are made at home, pressure is reduced on factory-made items and manpower is released for defense work.

* * *

IT IS ESTIMATED that during 1950 more than 500 million garments of various kinds were made by women in the home. Since it takes about one hour of labor in a ready-to-wear factory to complete an average-price dress, home sewing resulted in the saving of more than 500 million factory-worker man hours last year—a large consideration during a period of national emergency and mobilization of manpower.

The tax on sewing machines was included in a proposal to place an excise tax on electrical appliances of the "luxury" type, introduced Feb. 5 by Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder and passed on to the House ways and means committee, where it is still under consideration.

The proposed tax also would affect such items as electric ironers, dishwashers, washing machines and vacuum cleaners.

NEW YORK

"Skin pins" and "hose bows" are the latest didoes to enhance a lady's limbs.

Stocking makers are introducing a variety of detachable leg decorations which will supplement, perhaps supplant, the currently-popular embroidered hosiery.

Least expensive of the new novelties are skin pins (or "beauty spots") which are glued to the leg and show through nylon hose in peek-a-boo effect.

They come in tiny flower, heart and crescent shapes.

More complicated and costly are little decorations in similar shapes that are applied to the outer side of stockings by means of a rubberized disc that attaches them to the nylon.

Trickiest of all is a new stocking that is equipped with a tiny gold bow stitched into the back seam. It comes with dangling jeweled pendants which attach to the bow for festive formal occasions.

Protect Tot From Accidents

Today, accidents present one of childhood's greatest hazards. They actually kill more youngsters than any single disease and account for one-third as many deaths as all diseases combined. In addition, they maim and cripple many other children for life.

The prevention of accidents during the first year of life is a problem for the parents or others who may care for the child. Any accident to a youngster under one year of age is directly the fault of those who are responsible for his care.

Such absolute protection cannot, however, be continued into the second and third years. From this time on it is a matter of education; that is, the child must not only be protected but must also be taught to protect himself against accidents. Children learn soon in the second year which experiences can be painful, such as getting close to a hot radiator. It is the period between one and five years that is critical and most important in teaching the youngster to avoid accidents.

Accidental burns are, of course, frequent. In preventing burns, the parents should, naturally, never allow the infant to be near a stove, an open flame, or an open light socket. The baby should not be allowed to play with matches or a lighter.

Poisonings, also, are frequent in children. Parents should remember the child's climbing abilities and place poisons and caustic substances out of his reach.

Infants should never be allowed alone near machinery with exposed moving parts.

During the first and second years, the child must be protected against falls. Stairways should be guarded by gates of some kind. Screens in upstairs windows must be fastened in securely. Of course, children learn from their own experiences in climbing about and falling so that they gradually learn to be careful.

In teaching accident prevention, it is necessary for the child to learn (not in any way that is harmful to him) about the various dangers which may confront him. Children who have had several accidents may develop a sense of insecurity, and of course, this must be guarded against, for such a feeling of insecurity may have an effect on the child's entire life.

Accident prevention requires resourcefulness on the part of the parents. They must give some thought to the subject and be able to anticipate dangers that will develop along with the child's ever-changing interests and activities. They must also be able to establish discipline in order to protect the child against major threats which cannot be removed from his reach. This all takes time and effort, but it will pay off in wonderful dividends.

L. T.: Do hormone injections have any contribution to make in the fight against infection?

Answer: The only hormone compounds which have been known to be effective against infection are the new drugs, ACTH and cortisone, and, sometimes, thyroid extract. These, however, should be used only when other drugs, such as the antibiotics, have failed.

Marion Garden Center Notes

DAYLILIES

Hemerocallis which we used to know being produced in many beautiful forms and colors. All of them are easily grown, will give fine results in either sun or shade and bloom a long time. The small garden should certainly include these on the list of "must" plantings.

Hemerocallis as cut flowers have only been known in the last ten years. Formerly the flowers closed at sunset and as the day ended, so did the colors. Now there are varieties which remain open under the lights in the home, adding their exquisite coloring to the beauty of arrangements any time.

Council

ble on Indiana avenue intersections and by placing police traffic [illegible] in action on Indiana.

Mr. Forrest proposed council consider the building of a blacktop sidewalk instead of concrete. He said the cost of a block of blacktop sidewalk is about one-fourth the cost of a concrete walk.

Asks Estimates

Council President Slack requested the city engineer prepare estimates on a blacktop walk and referred the matter to the street and ally committee of council for further consideration.

Charles Harmon, an attorney speaking for the George Washington P.-T.A. said, "The P.-T.A. members are not cheap skates because they do not want to contribute to build this walk, even though they have petitioned for it. They have built walks in front of their own homes and paid for them," he said.

Council faces some kind of a compromise, he said, because the life of one child which might be lost for lack of a safe place for him to walk would certainly be of greater value than any of the property assessments.

He asked council to consider the proposition that both sides of a street may be assessed for a walk on one side. He said his studies of the statutes showed this possible. He also asked an investigation be made of the possibility of a referendum being both legal and imminent. He also asked the possibility of extending the period in which assessments may be paid by the property owners.

To Make Opinion

City Solicitor John Watters promised a written opinion on these questions at the next council meeting but said his "cursory" opinion would be that a referendum was quite legal.

Council President Slack then ordered a caucus meeting on the matter to be held at the council chambers at 7:30 next Monday night and invited Mr. Harmon to attend.

Pass Hospital Bill

City Council last night passed unanimously legislation giving official status to the hospital medical staff at Marion City Hospital. The new staff plan as approved by council recognizes the staff organization at the hospital and authorizes them to place certain restrictions on the practice of medicine and surgery at the hospital.

Under the new plan welfare cases at the hospital will receive surgical and medical care without charge from the doctors and the staff will assign the most qualified doctor to treat each welfare patient, his services to be free.

Council also received a proposal submitted by the Marion County Bar Association and approved by the Municipal Court for the alteration of the interior of the ground floor of city hall to provide more space for the Municipal Courtroom and for city council which uses the room. The matter was referred to council's finance and buildings and lands committee.

Councilman Clarence Sanden, 6th Ward, chairman of the finance committee, told council that City Hospital was $21,000 in the red as of April 30.

Mr. Sanden said the hospital has unpaid accounts receivable in the amount of $50,000 to $60,000.

Asks Co-Solicitor

He asked council for legislation authorizing co-counsel for the city solicitor at a salary of $100 per month and providing for a commission of 30 percent on all over $250 per month this co-counsel could collect from past-due hospital accounts.

About $49,602 of the past due accounts for 1950 were owed by people who could pay, he estimated. He said action to collect accounts must be taken as the general fund could not stand the drain or the deficit which will face it at the end of this year.

Council President Slack, at the request of utilities committee chairman Louis B. Conkle, 4th Ward, scheduled a close meeting of council as a committee of the whole with Marion Water Co. officials for 7:30 tomorrow night at the office of Henry A. Mickley, attorney for the water company. Purpose of the meeting will be to discuss terms of a new franchise between the city and the water company. The last one expired May 4 after 25 years.

Safety-Service Director Ralph Forrest reported that bids for leasing the city parking lot will be opened at noon tomorrow.

Councilman Harold Smith, 1st Ward, requested the city solicitor's office investigate legal technicalities involved in having the name of Fish avenue legally changed to Universal avenue and if possible to have legislation making the change official prepared and presented before council as soon as possible.

Council also passed 13 routine ordinances dealing with street and sewer and curb, gutter and sidewalk improvements under legislation and for the disposal of some old city equipment and similar routine matters.

Visit Four Plants

During the factory visitation program which began at 8 a. m. yesterday, the teachers visited the Marion Industries Division of the Motor Products Corp., Fulfillment Corporation of America, the Huber Manufacturing Co. and the Arro Expansion Bolt Co.

The program was designed to better acquaint teachers with plant operations. It was the first visit many of them had made to a factory.

Guides conducted tours of the plants, pointing out manufacturing processes, safety practices, and methods of operation.

A similar visitation program is planned in the future for Marion ministers.

Toll 2 Dead, 7 Missing In Ship Collision

NORFOLK, Va., May 15—(AP)—The Navy today postponed attempts to enter four compartments of the fire-ravaged seaplane tender Valcour. It revised downward the number of known dead in yesterday's collision between the vessel and a collier.

Atlantic Fleet headquarters announced today the following official figures: 2 known dead, 7 missing and presumed dead, and 19 hospitalized.

The headquarters announcement said 148 enlisted men and 14 officers—a total of 190 men—had been accounted for. It explained that last night's announcement of 11 known dead was based on "an estimate" that nine bodies were in the engine room.

This far the engine room has not been entered and a spokesman said the bodies of crewmen actually have not been seen there.

One body has been recovered. Earlier reports of two bodies being recovered referred to the same body.

Senators Hear Bradley

of Americans, both in the United States and on the battlefield.

"Red China is not the powerful nation seeking to dominate the world. Frankly, in the opinion of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, this (MacArthur) strategy would involve us in the wrong war, at the wrong place, at the wrong time, and with the wrong enemy."

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff before the Senate armed services and foreign relations committees which are investigating MacArthur's dismissal from his Far Eastern commands.

Bradley said MacArthur's program—calling for blockading Red China, bombing Manchurian bases and using Chinese Nationalist troops—has strong military value so far as the Korean campaign is concerned.

But he added:

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff believe that these same measures do increase the risk of global war and that such a risk should not be taken unnecessarily."

This was much the same argument Secretary of Defense Marshall had made to the senators. Marshall said MacArthur's proposals would risk bringing Russia into the Korean fighting and, if the Soviets did come in, the fighting would inevitably spread into a world war.

MacArthur, on the other hand, expressed doubt the Russians would move in. Whatever plans the Russians have, he continued, they will carry out anyhow.

Bradley said "the fundamental military issue" in the dispute is "whether to increase the risk of a global war by taking additional measures that are open to the United States and its allies."

"We now have a localized conflict in Korea," he said. "Some of the military measures under discussion might well place the United States in the position of responsibility for broadening the war and at the same time losing most if not all of our allies."

Bradley, like MacArthur and Marshall a five star general, said the United States must maintain a global viewpoint.

He said the U. S. and Russia represent two centers of power, supporting opposing ideologies, and added:

"From a global viewpoint—and with the security of our nation of prime importance — our military mission is to support a policy of preventing communism from gaining the manpower, the resources, the raw materials, and the industrial capacity essential to world domination.

"If Soviet Russia ever controls the entire Eurasian land mass, then the Soviet-Satellite imperialism may have the broad base upon which to build the military power to rule the world."

Bradley said that in Berlin, Greece, and Korea, the free nations have opposed Communist aggression with a different type of action.

"But each time the power of the United States has been called upon and we have become involved," he went on, "Each incident has cost us money, resources and some lives.

"But in each instance we have prevented the domination of one more area, and the absorption of another source of manpower, raw materials, and resources.

"Korea, in spite of the importance of the engagement, must be looked upon with proper perspective. It is just one engagement—just one phase of this battle that we are having with the other power center in the world which opposes us and all we stand for."

He asserted that "guerrilla diplomacy" has been used by Russia for five years.

"In each of the actions in which we have participated to oppose this gangster conduct, we have risked World War III," he said.

"But each time we have used methods short of total war.

"As costly as Berlin and Greece and Korea may be, they are less expensive than the vast destruction which would be inflicted upon all sides if a total war were to be precipitated."

Bradley said a field commander like MacArthur "very properly estimates his needs from the viewpoint of operations in his own theater or sphere of action."

But he added those responsible for higher direction "must necessarily base their actions on broader aspects, and on the needs, actual or prospective, of several theaters."

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff, in view of their global responsibilities and their perspective with respect to the worldwide strategic situation, are in a better position than is any single theater commander to assess the risk of general war," Bradley said. "Moreover, the Joint Chiefs of Staff are best able to judge our own military resources with which to meet that risk."

Car Overturns At Intersection

Considerable damage resulted to a car driven by Chester Herman Partlow, 51, of 272 Lincoln avenue when it failed to negotiate a turn on Route 30-S at the intersection of Route 98 and overturned in the middle of the road. Partlow and a passenger, Robert L. Seckel, 19, of 758 East Mark street were uninjured. The accident occurred at 9:40 p.m. yesterday, patrolmen reported.

John B. Kerr, 22, of Columbus was arrested and charged with speeding on Route 98 near Bucyrus. He was taken before Mayor F. P. Stiler of Bucyrus and fined $40 and costs after pleading guilty to the charge.

Jefferson L. Cole, 68, of near Mt. Gilead was arrested and charged with failure to heed a stop sign at a county road and Route 23 south of Marion at 3:20 p.m. yesterday. He was arraigned before L. F. Groll, mayor of Waldo, and fined $10 and costs. He pleaded guilty to the charge.

William Eugene Brake, 26, of Cardington was arrested for failure to heed a stop sign at Routes 529 and 136 south of Marion at 5 p.m. yesterday. He was given a citation to appear in Municipal Court Saturday.

Driver Jailed On Contempt Charge

William Pennington, 19, of Lee street, is serving a five-day sentence in the Marion County jail on a contempt of court charge arising from his failure to obey a citation issued Dec. 14, 1949 by the state highway patrol.

The state highway patrol said Pennington was arrested by the Marion County Sheriff's office Saturday.

Pennington was arrested by the patrol Dec. 14, 1949 on a charge of failing to stop for a school bus on Route 30 east of Marion. He was cited to appear in Juvenile Court Dec. 19, but ignored the citation. The highway patrol conducted a search during the time and early this year received a tip on Pennington's whereabouts. At that time, Juvenile Court issued a citation ordering him to appear but he ignored that citation also.

The patrol said he was picked up by the sheriff's deputies, appeared in Juvenile Court yesterday and was fined $25 and costs on the schoolbus charge and received the jail sentence on the contempt charge.

School Board Arranges For Sale of Bonds

Superintendent, Clerk In Cleveland To Confer With Lawyers

School Superintendent Lester L. Dickey and School Board Clerk E. Paul Huffman today went to Cleveland to confer with the school board's attorneys and arrange for the sale of the $2,900,000 in bonds voted at the May 8 primary election.

They made the trip in compliance with directions given by the school board at its meeting yesterday afternoon when the board declared its policy would be to proceed with the school improvement program with all possible speed.

Sale of the bonds, which will be arranged through the Cleveland law firm of Squire Saunders and Dempsey, will provide the funds to finance the school building program.

Other actions by the board yesterday continued the contracts of eight school teachers: Miss Barbara Fralich of State Street Junior High, Mrs. Pauline Hedding of Silver Street School; Mrs. Dorothy Key at George Washington School, Mrs. Dorothy Klehm at Glenwood, George Lane, instrumental music instructor and assistant band director, and John Luginbuhl, assistant coach, both at Harding High; Mrs. Goldie McClain, sight saving teacher at George Washington and Mrs. Elizabeth Withrow of State Street Junior High.

Three resignations were accepted: Dale Davison, teacher at Vernon Junior High who resigned to become a civilian employe of the Air Force; Howard Baker, custodian and fireman, and Arthur Treese, custodian at Edison.

Employed to replace the two custodians were Earl Reed, a former custodian and Paul Zachman.

The school board also granted the Ohio Associated Telephone Co. permission to run a transmission line on two poles through the Vernon Junior High School property.

Mrs. Anne Sedelmaier, nurse for the Marion County Department of Health, was named chairman of the nursing section of the Ohio Public Health Association, at the annual meeting of the group held Thursday and Friday in Columbus.

Vera Glover of the Cuyahoga County Health Department was named president of the association.

"There is strength in unity. But there is also unity in strength. We—our Allies as well as this country—must first grow stronger militarily before we can have a unified foreign policy."

Not Doing Enough

Baruch said that today in Korea young men are buying the time for the whole free world to rearm. He said this is a time to ask whether we are doing as much as we can as quickly as we can. Then he answered the question:

"I would be less than frank if I did not say I do not believe that we, as a nation, or our Allies, are doing enough. I might add that even if the fighting in Korea is brought to an end, as we all hope, the need to rearm would remain."

Won't Turn Down Nomination, Taft Says at Dayton

DAYTON, O., May 15—(AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) said last night he wouldn't refuse the presidential nomination if a majority of the Republicans want him.

Taft told a Dayton Journal Herald reporter:

"If the majority of the Republicans make it clear they want me, I wouldn't refuse the presidential nomination."

Taft was in Dayton to address the spring conference of the Ohio Federation of Republican Women's organizations. Mrs. Katherine Kennedy Brown, federation president, introduced him as "the world's greatest statesman and the next president."

About 1,100 women attended the conference and heard Taft predict that "with the kind of an organization we had in Ohio last year" the Republicans would elect a president and vice president in 1952.

Taft said the presidential campaign would be fought on foreign policy issues. He did not amplify on his remarks to the newsman.

Boys School Escapees Captured After Chase

COLUMBUS, O., May 15—(AP)—Sheriff's deputies captured two fugitives from the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster early today after firing five shots at them in an auto pursuit.

The youngsters were caught after their stolen automobile ran into a ditch and hit a tree. Neither one was injured.

They were booked as Kenneth Nutt, 18, of Columbus and Cephus Cox, 17, of Cincinnati. They escaped from the Lancaster Institution several days ago.

Senate Recalls Bill Thawing Liquor Permits

Votes To Bring Measure Back For Reconsideration

COLUMBUS, May 15—(AP)—The Senate-approved bill to junk the state's liquor permit freeze was on its way back to the Senate death chamber today.

The legislative group voted 18 to 8 last night to reconsider the measure.

But, the Senate grabbed the bill back from the House only after its passage had given some of its own members, the governor, the liquor director and some church leaders a bad weekend.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Arthur Blake (D-Belmont), was approved 20-8 last Thursday. It provides the State Liquor Department must issue permits up to the population quota established in the liquor control law.

Here is her own statement: "I was overweight at only 21 years of age. For this reason Rennel has been a miracle to me. Since I have been taking Rennel Concentrate I have lost 31 lbs. I feel so much better since losing this weight."

It's amazing how quickly you can lose unsightly fat at home. Obtain 4 ounces of liquid Rennel at your druggist. Mix with grapefruit juice as directed and take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. No diets to complicate your meal planning. Rennel contains nothing harmful and the makers agree to refund your money on the very first bottle if it does not show you the way to lose ugly fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves. Part of Air Force Exhibit Coming June 4

Lucky Lady, Globe Circling B-50, To Be Shown Here

Marion has been selected as the last stop in a 3,000 mile Air Force display tour through nine northwestern states.

Air Force equipment prepared by personnel from Wright-Patterson Air Base at Dayton will be exhibited here June 4. Feature of the exhibit will be the fuselage of the Lucky Lady, B-50 which flew non-stop around the world.

The visit of the aircraft is being sponsored by the Marion Flight of the 434th Volunteer Air Reserve Training Unit, the Marion Chamber of Commerce and the Civil Defense Organization.

The exhibit, open to the public, will be here during the afternoon and evening of June 4.

Highlighting the exhibits will be the 99-foot fuselage of the Lucky Lady, the B-50 Superfortress which made the only non-stop flight around the world in 1949. The fuselage of an F-84 Thunderjet and two modern cutaway aircraft engines also will be shown.

Purpose of Tour

The exhibit tour is being conducted to further the Air Force's program to keep the public more fully informed on its meaning, scope and role in the future security of the nation. Two similar tours were conducted through north and southwestern states last year and were visited by over 1,700,000 spectators. This is the first display tour of the globe-circling B-50 however.

Arrangements are being made to locate a suitable downtown display site for the exhibits. Final arrangements for the display are being made with officials of the Air Force's Exhibit Unit at Wright-Patterson A. F. Base in Dayton.

Other Exhibits

This organization has taken similar Air Force exhibitions over 317,000 miles across the nation's highways during the past four years and made its displays to more than 24 million air-minded Americans. Trained technicians from this group will accompany the exhibits to be show here to describe plane and equipment features and answer questions of spectators.

The tour will appear at Canton on June 5 and at Youngstown on June 6.

Tulips Destroyed In Sidewalk Flower Bed

Planted as a spot to help create beauty in the residential section of North Prospect street is a flower bed standing between the sidewalk and curb at Prospect and Mark streets. The "gardener" who has taken an interest in beautifying the city is Mrs. Mae Fuller of 416 North Prospect street.

After watching tulips appear to create a spread of color on the scene, Mrs. Fuller was greatly disappointed when she found that someone had destroyed the blooms. She thinks that perhaps children committed the act of vandalism. Iris planted with the tulips will fill the flower bed shortly and Mrs. Miller expressed the hope that they may be left to grow without harm.

It doesn't take much effort, to achieve success. The tangy lemon pie filling, smooth as velvet, and the fluffy meringue glamorously decorated with toasted coconut, are simple to make, lovely to look at, and a joy to eat. It's a pie you'll be repeating often, too, when you discover how this pie perks up tired meals and tired appetites.

COCONUT LEMON PIE

1¼ cups sugar
½ cup sifted flour
Dash of salt
1½ cups water
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 T. butter
½ cup lemon juice
2 T. grated lemon rind
1 baked 9-inch pie shell

Combine sugar, flour and salt in top of double boiler. Add water and egg yolks, mixing thoroughly. Place over rapidly boiling water and cook 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Cover and cook 5 minutes longer. Remove from boiling water, add butter, and stir until melted. Add lemon juice and rind. Cool. Turn into pie shell.

For meringue: Beat 3 egg whites until foamy throughout, add 6 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating after each addition until sugar is blended. Then continue beating until mixture will stand in peaks. Pile lightly on filling. Bake in hot oven (425 F.) five minutes. Sprinkle ¾ cup coconut on top, then bake 3 minutes longer.

Indians Again on Short End Against Lopat

Through the SPORTSCOPE with A.L. McCLAIN

LOOKING 'EM OVER. After almost a month of play, let's look at the Marion Red Sox.

If we were a cartoonist sitting down to the task of drawing our early impression of the local club it would look something like this:

A pitcher with the letters, "Red Sox" would be shown cowering on the mound while baseball sailed by his head. On the steps of the dugout would be a short man on his knees begging, "Please send me some pitchers— "

Over on first base would be a young giant of a player flexing his muscles and announcing, "Just wait until we get our turn at bat— "

Outside on a stand would be a pleasant fellow wearing a bow tie, straw hat and barking, "Come on inside folks and see tomorrow's major league ball players today—there's nothing healthier than baseball

WORD PICTURES. Unfortunately we couldn't draw a square box and get it to come out looking like one so the above interpretation will have to suffice

To identify the above figures the pitcher could be almost any Marion hurler, the man on bended knee is Manager Elmer Yoter the fellow on first base is the league's leading hitter, Marv Stendel, and the outside barker is Dan Williamson, general manager of the club

DESPERATE. Even at this early stage it is clear that the Marsox will need some better pitching if they hope to make a strong bid for their second successive pennant.

In other departments especially hitting, the local crew has come through in such fashion to put them on top But it's a good bet that Yoter would gladly trade his best dress suit for a first-line chucker.

Yoter is still dissatisfied with the inability of his infield to come up with doubleplays on grounders that have the two killing label. Pepper Vince covers as much ground as any shortstop we've seen in this league but the lads at 2nd aren't getting the relay beaten off fast enough.

FANCY CLUBBING. To date Stendel, Rush Evanik, Jack Andreas and Ed Sadowski have carried most of the power at the plate Sadowski and Stendel are the power hitters

Sadowski's long-ball hitting in the early series pace with league leading Springfield has made him a favorite with local fans

In evaluating the potentialities of the Marsox however we still see a weakness of an inept Marion pitching to defend himself against line drives.

Wonder if the crashing sound of bat against ball and Yoter's pleas for more batters is reaching as far as Boston

PITCHING—Ed Lopat Yankees won his sixth victory without a defeat as he beat Cleveland, 11-4, on six hits.

HITTING—Gil McDougald Yankees hit a home run double and single to bat in four runs in New York victory.

Yanks' Ace Holds Tribe To Four Hits

NEW YORK, May 15—(AP)—Despite all the strategy Cleveland Indians could muster, Southpaw Ed Lopat of the New York Yankees today had his 11th straight victory over the Tribe

The stocky lefthander pushed Cleveland down into fifth place last night by hurling the Yankees to an 11-4 triumph It was his sixth victory without a loss and his 30th compared to only six defeats over the Indians in his major league career.

The victory enabled the Yanks to increase their lead over the runner-up Washington Senators to two and one half games. The Senators dropped an 8-7, 11-inning decision to the Boston Red Sox in the only other game played in the major leagues

All-Out Effort

In an all-out effort to break Lopat's streak, Cleveland started another lefthander, Lou Brissie, and presented a lineup with three batters Lopat had not faced in his previous Tribal scalpings.

Brissie gave up eight hits in six innings and, along with Sam Chapman, failed to get a hit as a jinx-breaker. The only member of the trio to justify the strategy was former Yankee George Strunweiss who plastered his first homer for Cleveland in the fifth with no one on. Jim Hegan got a second one-run round-tripper for the Tribe in the seventh.

Lopat went all the way and gave up only six hits He was in trouble only in the third inning when the Indians tied the score at 2-all.

Hegan, leading off, singled and advanced to second on Brissie's grounder to first baseman Johnny Hopp. Dale Mitchell lined a single to center for his second straight hit, sending Hegan over the plate with Cleveland's first run.

Second Run

The second Tribal run came when Strunweiss walked and Larry Doby followed with a grounder to Jerry Coleman at second base Coleman flipped the ball to Phil Rizzuto, forcing Strunweiss, but Doby made first safely, as Umpire Joe Paparella saw it.

While Hopp debated the play with Paparella, Mitchell rounded third and made it home ahead of Hopp's throw. A grounder by Chapman ended the rally

Rookie Gil McDougald started New York off with a two-run inside the park homer in the first inning.

Hank Bauer homered with one on in the fourth and Coleman doubled three runs over in the sixth. The Yanks wound up their scoring with four runs in the seventh after Mike Garcia took over the mound from Brissie. McDougald drove home two runs and Joe Di Maggio one. Di Maggio then crossed the plate himself on a wild pitch and a pair of errors

Dick Rozek retired the Easterners in order in the eighth.

Off today, the teams return to action tomorrow. Either Bob Lemon or Early Wynn will go against the Yankees' Vic Raschi

At Washington, Fred Hatfield scored the winning run from third base with two out in the 11th when leftfielder Gil Coan dropped Matt Batts' easy fly ball.

The Senators scored six runs in the third inning but the Red Sox fought back and scored three runs in the fourth and two each in the seventh and eighth. Relief Pitcher Harry Taylor was the winner and former Red Sox Pitcher Mickey Harris the loser.

Close Scores Feature Play In Softball League

Steve Norris Limits Trinity To One Single

Close scores and erratic fielding featured the softball play of the Church League last night at Garfield and McKinley Parks as three games were won by one-run margins.

In the first game at Garfield, Johnny Johnson of Trinity led off with a single against St. Mary No 1. The blow was the only safety permitted by Irish hurler, Steve Norris, as he posted a 2-1 verdict over Trinity Baptist.

Two Safeties

The winners managed to connect for only two safeties from the offerings of Jack Burroughs, Trinity hurler, but each hit drove a run across the plate Charley Rizzo shot a single into centerfield in the third inning to knot the count and after Lou Myers was safe on an error in the sixth, Dan McGinnis blasted a two-base hit to win the game. The Irish were charged with four errors while Trinity made three miscues.

Church of the Brethren edged St Mary No 2, 5-4, by scoring two runs in the final frame on hits by Bill Young and Junior Ballenger.

Epworth edged Greenwood, 10-9, in a slugfest for the third one-run margin. Joe Roseberry blasted his third homer of the year for Epworth with a mate on base in the opening frame and Max Roseberry belted a four-ply swat in the second with two men on. Schmeltz lead off the fourth with a homer for Greenwood. Both teams committed three errors.

Nine Errors

Wesley Methodist was charged with nine errors in the field but managed to down Lee Street Presbyterian, 14-11 at McKinley Park. The miscues aided in most of the scoring and the losers were given only four hits. Dale Healy smacked a home run for Wesley with two men on in the sixth and Simpkins connected for the losers in the second.

RATED COMERS IN GOLF. Bill Goodloe, left, and Hobart Manley, two Georgia amateur golfers have been the rage this spring. Both will take part in the British and U. S. Amateur championships. Manley recently won the North and South tournament in which most of America's top amateurs participated. He is only 24.

New Sparmates To Aid Charles' Drills for Maxim

CHICAGO, May 15 — (AP) — Ezzard Charles, who risks his heavyweight crown against Joe Maxim in Chicago Stadium May 30, will get two new sparmates from the East today.

Charles believes he has been unable to do his best against some of his sparmates so a call was put in for Al Smith, New York heavyweight, and Charles (Doc) Williams, 175 pounder from Elizabeth, N. J

Among the first reported odds on the fight was one of 12-5 for Charles. But this brought a jeer from Jake Mintz, co-manager with Tom Tannas, of Charles.

"The odds are wrong," declared Mintz. "Maxim has an even chance to beat Charles"

Challenger Maxim, the light-heavyweight champion, reported he has boxed a total of 182 rounds in preparation for the title showdown and now weighs 181 pounds, one more than he plans to carry against Charles. Charles has completed 72 rounds and weighs slightly under 185.

Morningstar To Quit Post At Mansfield

MASSILLON, O., May 15—(AP)—A. E. "Augie" Morningstar, football coach and athletic director at Mansfield High School, said today he is resigning to enter private business.

Morningstar, who was named Ohio High school coach of the year in the 1949 Associated Press poll, said he will become personnel manager of the Tyson Bearing Corp. in Massillon.

He has coached at Mansfield since 1947.

Morningstar played football under Paul Brown, now coach of the Cleveland Browns, in Massillon from 1933-35. He then entered Purdue, playing football for three years After graduation, he was a member of the Purdue coaching staff.

In 1941 he became line coach at Massillon and became head coach in 1945. He served as head coach at Portsmouth High School in 1946.

Morningstar, who had one of the outstanding teams in the state at Mansfield in 1949, said he was leaving with "some regret."

"On the other hand," he added, "it is a real pleasure to return to my home town and my many Massillon friends

"While coaching and teaching have formed my profession for a number of years, I had had a number of approaches by industry along with other coaching offers during the past three years I turned all of them aside until this opportunity presented itself I feel I would be doing myself and my family an injustice if I were to refuse."

Things you'd like to know about your Railroad

THE CENTRAL IDEA

The Story of a Railroad Dollar

NEW YORK CENTRAL SYSTEM

1. HOW IS IT EARNED? New York Central earned 69¢ of each dollar it received in 1950 from hauling freight, and 15¢ more carrying passengers. Another 12.5¢ came from other operations. The final 3.5¢ of New York Central's income dollar last year was yield on its investments.

2. RAILROADERS GOT MOST of that dollar—over 56¢ in wages, salaries, pensions and Central's contribution in the form of payroll taxes to provide security. Their share of Central's income totaled $443,000,000. And these men and women spend their money where they live!

3. ANOTHER 25¢ of New York Central's dollar went for coal. Diesel oil, rails, ties, wheels and all the other items that go into a railroad's market basket. Depreciation took 4.9¢. Interest, rentals, etc. required 8.5¢. Federal, state and local taxes accounted for 5.7¢.

4. LAST AND LEAST came net income of 2.3¢. Probably no one in town works for so small a profit as your Railroad. Compared to most cost-of-living items, fares and freight rates are bargains. But then, giving a lot for the money always has been the CENTRAL IDEA!

Two-Team Battle

As was expected, the meet developed into a two-team battle with Harding and Findlay scoring most of the points.

Ed Weary's performance in the high jump was one of the most pleasing aspects of the meet for Spartans. The local jumper hit 5-9 in the first place. The league has sported a plentiful supply of ace high jumpers all season. Yesterday's leap was Weary's best of the year.

Jim Kennell turned in an easy win in the broad jump and Ted Price won the mile race by edging Tiffin's Stump with a blazing finish in the final 220 yards. John Ashworth won the 880 run with a sprint in the stretch to win going away and Jim Condron, anchor man for the Harding 880-yard relay team, overcame a five-foot deficit to throw that event into a photo-finish. Findlay runners managed to hold a very slim edge, however.

Paul Geissler won the 220 race with little trouble and Ludwig took the shotput and the high hurdles and finished second in the low hurdles and anchored the mile relay team.

Three Trophies

Harding was presented three trophies at the conclusion of the meet. The Buckeye League Traveling trophy, a large permanent trophy and a trophy to the mile relay team was presented the locals. The first three finishers in each event received medals and fourth and fifth place finishers were awarded ribbons.

Harding will travel to Lima South tomorrow for the final dual meet of the year and will wind up the season Saturday at the district meet at Columbus.

Bob Hope Given "Starring" Role In British Open Play

ST. ANDREWS Scotland, May 15—(AP)—Comedian Bob Hope today was assigned the opening day starring role in the British Amateur golf championship which opens Monday at Royal Porthcawl, Wales.

The staid royal and ancient golf club, which controls Amateur championship, cast one eye at the huge crowd that showed up last year to watch Hope's buddy, Bing Crosby, and decided to put on Hope at 9:54 a. m. (4:54 a. m. E.S.T.) which means a big gallery regardless of the weather.

Hope will meet Charles C. Fox, 41-year-old paint manufacturer from Brough Yorkshire, England.

Crosby drew a first day crowd a year ago that paid £3,000 ($8,400) to see him play in pouring rain. Without Crosby, R. and A. officials admitted privately the first day gate would have been about one-tenth of that.

Frank Strahahen of Toledo, O., current British amateur champion, drew a first round match against Maj. Ian Keelan, Scotsman, stationed at Mombasa, Kenya.

Baseball Oldtimers In Get-Together

BOSTON, May 15—(AP)—Six players who figured in the American League's first box score on April 24, 1901 will be among the 30 oldtime players who reunite today to help the Boston Red Sox celebrate the league's golden anniversary.

They are Bill Hoy, Bill Sullivan and Roy Patterson of the Chicago White Stockings and Oliver Pickering, Bill Bradley and Bill Hoffer of the Cleveland club.

Because of unfavorable weather conditions, the only opening game played on the day of the American League's birth was in Chicago. Pitching against Homer the then 23-year-old Patterson, known as the "Boy Wonder," pitched the White Stockings to an 8-2 win over Cleveland.

That triumph launched Chicago's drive for the first American League pennant which, under Clark Griffith, it won with a total of 83 victories and 53 defeats.

The Red Sox' inaugural club, managed by Jimmy Collins trailed in second place by four games.

The now venerable Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, also will be here along with such 1901 Red Sockers as Charlie Hemphill, Winford Kellum, Fred Mitchell, Harry Gleason and the immortal Cy Young.

Cards Buy Bill Johnson

NEW YORK, May 15—(INS)—The sale of veteran third baseman Billy Johnson to the St. Louis Cardinals today left three players on the New York Yankee chopping-off block.

Johnson went to the Cardinals last night for an "undisclosed sum," reportedly considerably higher than the $10,000 waiver fee. St. Louis sent the Yankees rookie first baseman Don Bollweg, who was farmed out to Kansas City by the Bombers.

The deal left the Yankees with three men over the 25-player limit which must be reached by midnight Wednesday.

Johnson, who will be 33-years-old in August, had been sought by the Redbirds to fill their third base needs for this season. The veteran infielder, who came to the Yankees in 1943, had to be waived out of the American League before the deal was made.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

The proposed tax rates p ve ta Herb Wayne has t the only one said his was the co the common man.

• • •

By the end of the century it will probably be so common that one will be able to classify people except by the number of hu pants suit they wear.

• • •

The house committee on ways and means is trying to squeeze about seven million dollars more out of the populace on top of the present taxes. That will do until the next tax bill is written at slightly higher extortion rates.

• • •

So far there only taker to 90 percent tax on high pocket income. It's going to get real interesting when they go to 95 96 97:

But don get the wrong—it's still possible in this country for a man to make a million dollars and the Treasury Department hopes he will.

• • •

Britain has about run out of dollars and the pound has taken a tumble. It's working down to the poor but they started eating. We can catch up if we put our minds to it.

• • •

We can be as broke as they are any time we want to be and probably we will be.

Skunk Evens Score For Being Kicked

GREEN LAKE, Wis.—(UP)—There was a scratching at the front door of Clarence Voeltner's home so he opened the door to let in what he thought was his dog.

When the animal didn't come in Voeltner reached down to pet it. The fur wasn't at all familiar. Voeltner turned on the hall light and saw his guest was a black and white mephitis, better known as a skunk.

He quickly booted the animal out. The skunk retaliated for the lack of hospitality. The next morning Voeltner found the mangled carcass of a hen in his chicken coop.
